

Entrepreneurship

Job Opportunities Faculty Member

The School of Economics and Business Administration and The Graduate School of International Management at Yokohama City University aim to develop the ability to think creatively, solve problems, and use English to adapt to diverse situations in modern society based on knowledge of economics and business administration for our students. We also aim to foster the business management skills necessary for a global community and the planning ability to create new businesses. We are now accepting applications from a wide range of individuals willing to teach courses regarding entrepreneurship, which is an essential part of our curriculum. We expect you to focus on teaching and researching entrepreneurship and be responsible for teaching business management. Entrepreneurship is a crucial mindset required of all businesspeople and their recurrent education and reskilling support. Furthermore, we would like you to contribute to communities in Yokohama City by supporting the creation of new businesses through open innovation.
